s hot at West Point it goes in for being hot and seglects all other business. In the morning a cool neglects all other business. In the morning a chreeze blew up the river and the sky was cloudle but over among the mountains long rolling sounds were heard now and then where Hendrik Hudson and his men were playing at ten-pins, and the residents of the Point knew what was coming. By noon the breeze was all gone. The sun shone down with a fierce glare, and all around on mountain peaks the storm gods began to gather their forces, while Rip Van Winkle and Hendrik Hudson became more and more energetic in their game of bowls. By 4 was no telling whether Rip or Hendrik was coming ii clouds and Storm King called to Dunderberg and Dunderberg to Crow's Nest. But still the hot sun hone down on the plain, and at 5 o'clock, when the hreatened storm had rolled away into the fastresse

The cadets, as they always do, did themselve untermarching, firing by platoon and firing by company, firing by volley and firing at will. As usual, here were crowds of specialors under the trees at the vestern edge of the plain and fine equipages drawn up in the driveway. Among the host of distinguished visitors here now, two ladies, whose faces time and tract the most attention. One is the widow of General Grant and one the widow of General Logan. Another thing which is agitating the milliary community here now is the question of the band. Time was, in the days of old Rappelles, when the West Point band had a reputation all over the country Now its glory is departed, and if any echoes of those sweet stroths with which it used to wahe the mountains, are lost and wandering in the rocky fastnesses, they must be changed into wailing at the fallen glory of Ichabed. And the reason of this is that the Government only pass these musicians $17 a mouth, and they have no charce of making money outside. At other milliary pests where bands are maintained the musicians about double their pay by concerts and other outside double their pay by concerts and other outside flavour in the neighboring towns. In here there are no neighboring towns. All that the members the band get extra is a few dollars which the officer pay them in the winter for playing at their hop-dance of the much lans are married and suppor-families on their small pay. INDUSTRIAL TRAINING STRONGLY ADVO-CATED AT MOHONK LAKE.

EX-PRESIDENT HAYES ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF THE CONFERENCE-CULTIVATING SELF-RE-LIANCE IN THE COLORED PEOPLE.

IRT TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE!

Mohonk Lake, N. Y., June 4. The doings of to-day at the opening sessions of the Conference for the consideration of the negro question may be briefly summed forcibly presented, and the opinion was generally ex-pressed that to educate and Christianize it was to save t from itself and was to prevent it from become menace to the presperity of the country. All the speakers, while recognizing the gravity of the situation. at the same time seemed inclined to take a hopeful view of it. The view of the possimist was not heard. of it. The view of the possimist was not nearly.

A. R. Smiley, in opening the Conference, said that for the last seven years a similar gathering for the consideration of the Indian question had been held annually at Lake Mohonk. This Indian Conference was always arranged for the fall, and it had occurred to him that another one for the consideration of some other he held earlier in the season. At first he had thought of calling a temperance conference or an arbitration onference, but had concluded, owing to a suggestion nade by ex President Haves, to summon a negro con would command the confidence of the country. At the conclusion of Mr. Smiley's remarks ex-Presiden Hayes was elected president of the conference. On taking the chair he delivered an address. After reviewing the progress made by the negro race in the last quarter of a century and outlining the helps and the hindrances to the elevation of the colored people he concluded by saying: It was prove one of the important features of this Conference that it will furnish an opportunity and a place where all engaged in the good work may meet face to face mean them. No doubt, during everal years, a decided majority of both Houses of Congress, without regard to section or party, would have supported the resource it could have been brought to a safe. The recent adverse action of the Senate ad-world and take care of yourselves!" and every one of them replied with emphasis that he was able.

The Rev. Dr. Allen, secretary of the Presisteria Board of Missions, was the next spenker. The Doctor began with the fively statements that his father had been a slaveholder and that he himself and been brought up to hate three persons, the negro trader, the assistance and that General Admistrong had said, since he knew the negro from personal observation and study. There was no more reason why the people of the United States should balk at negro race problem than at a French race prob-em or an English race problem. Educate the negro. hards, head and heart, and all will be well. The Board with which he was connected began its work twenty tive years ago, and had ecomplished great and most encouraging results The policy pursued by the Board corresponded with that pursued at Hampton in that it aimed to make the colored people self-supporting. The boys made their own school deals and the girls their own dresses. ome people say: "You cannot make much out of the cego." Give him a chance; give God a chance with Men who light as gallantly as the black may mount during the war deserve a chance. There was no dynamiter, no Socialist among them. They had no ecret societies, as some whites in the country have, whose objects were hostile to the country's welfare.

The Rev. Dr. A. F. Baird, secretary of the American Missionary Association, followed. He felt that the present was a sort of an experience meeting and was glad to add a few words, based on several years work for the negro. He agreed with the position taken by General Armstrong. The important thing first, hart and all the time was character. Let the negroeequire character and there will be no trouble about other acquisitions. These will come in time. The schools with which be laid to do were religious schools: that is to say, the religious idea was made permanent, and though abundant provision was made for industrial training. One of the prime defects of the negro was a lack of orderliness, and the industrial education was obviously in the interest of orderliness. Again the negro was inaccurate. He had little sense of time and regarded pretty near right as just as good as entirely right. The industrial education lended to make him accurate. He was laught to hang up his tools and to have a place for everything and every thing in its place, and thus he came, through these means, to realize that a pretty good character was no more to be tolerated than a pretty good egg. Another ood work which the schools were accomplishing was to teach the negroes the value of a Christian home Left to themselves they have no hands, in the proper sense of the term. In conclusion the speaker dwelf spon the importance of the question which was being iscussed. It was at the foundation of any attempt t

Miss smiley said that she began three years after the war a work for the negroes, she found that the solution of the problem of successfully helping them lay in giving them an industrial education. In a racy way she relaised a number of incidents connected with her work. She compelled the negroes to help themselves by earning the things which they most needed and most desired. During her first winter among them 600 negro women learned to sew, and by their sewing they paid for the garments which they needed. A boy who wanted a school book was made to pay for it by handling a shovel for two hours.

Judge Toursee called attention to the fact that only one side of the question had been presented. The seonference had heard a good deal in regard to the needs of the negroes, but nothing in regard to the screat things which they had accomplished. He had an extensive experience with the black, as a manufacturer having had several hundreds at work for him. He believed that the negroes had accomplished more luring the last twenty five years than was ever done in the same time by any other race which started where the negro started. The things which they are ceited their white brethern.

Short speeches were also made by Miss Botune, of the Sea Islands, S. C. President Gaines, of Eastman College: Professor Hutchinson, of Biddle University. The session was closed by John G. Covert, of "The Cleveland Leader," who read a paper on the negro problem containing many interesting statistics bearing upon the question in hand.

At the evening session the Rev. Dr. Mayo, who for many years has labored in the Southern field, read a paper on the negro American citizen in the New South. He argued that the negro had done wonderfully well, considering his hmited opportunities and serious disadvantages. The long of the new Southern life was on the side of the negro. In spite of all obstacles and embarrassments, there is no real hindrance to-day in the path of any negro family at the south, so far as all their rights are concerned, except those political rights which are always tardily granted. In all essential respects the southern negro was better off than the Northern negro. The discussion was continued by Edward L. Pierce, of Boston: President McGill, of Swarthmore College; General Howard, and others.

At to-morrow's session the first topic for discussion

At to-morrow's session the first topic for discussion will be "Home Life in the Black Belt." The discussion which is to follow on the general education of the nearo will be participated in by W. T. Harris, United States Commissioner of Education; Lyman About Lobe Les codes. bott, John Jay and others.

WINNING PRAISE FROM THE PUBLIC.

Much attention is being attracted among persons interested in building to a new organization, known as the Consolidated findling and Loan Association of New York. Although this organization has been in operation a comparatively short time, it has already accomplished some really remarkable results, and the growth in its membership is procressing with a trapidity which is almost phenomenal. The success of the association is due to the wide experience and able management of its officers, and also to the fairness and liberality of the by laws enseted.
